INDEX TO VOLUME 19

A

Academy of Family Mediators, 374
"Advice by Any Other Name . . ." 197–214
Advice giving: continuum of, 198; contradictions about, 200; doubt creation and, 204–206; ethical dilemmas and, 198, 203, 209; vs. information, 197–198; interventions masking, 198, 203–204, 210; mediator bias and, 201; mediator neutrality/impartiality and, 199–200; mediator temptations and, 198; neutrality/impartiality and, 201–202; practice standards and, 200–201; process transparency and, 210–211; questions about, 199; reframing and, 206–207; selective facilitation and, 207–209; symmetrical prescriptive, 199–200
Africa: conflict resolution drawbacks in, 304; Global Coalition for Africa, 304, 307, 316; peace committees and, 311
Alternative dispute resolution (ADR): Asian tradition of, 297–298; Constantino/Merchant's model of, 166, 187–188, 218–220; facilitated, 166; growth of, 135; history of, 140; vs. litigation, 76; negotiated, 166. See also Mediation; Research protocols
Appreciative inquiry (AI), 92–93
Articles: "Advice by Any Other Name . . ." 197–214; "Civil War Characteristics, Mediators, and Resolution," 421–445; "Community Mediation in Singapore: Principles for Community Conflict Resolution," 289–301; "Considering Effective Divorce Mediation: Three Potential Factors," 389–420; "Employee Perceptions of the Availability and Use of Interest-Based, Right-Based, and Power-Based Conflict Management Strategies," 163–196; "Enacting and Reproducing Social and Individual Identity Through Mediation," 49–74; "Lessons from Brief Therapy? Some Interactional Suggestions for Family Mediators," 269–287; "Not Quite Protocols: Toward Collaborative Research in Dispute Resolution," 75–88; "(Re)designing Mediation to Address the Nuances of Power Imbalance," 135–162; "Resolving Middle-Age Sibling Conflict Regarding Parent Care," 31–47; "Where Is the Trust? Using Trust-Based Mediation for First Nations Dispute Resolution," 1–8
Asset development model, 94–95
Association of Conflict Resolution (ACR), 1, 105, 125–126, 130
Association for Conflict Resolution Education, 384
"Attending to Our Future: Why We Should Support Conflict Resolution Education," 383–388
Australia, conflict resolution in: Aboriginal Housing Agency and, 355; capacity building and, 355–357; practitioner networks in, 356–357; problems/lessons on, 358–359; sovereignty dialogues and, 354–355; transfer of technology and, 357–358

B

Barge, J. K., "Creating Healthy Communities Through Affirmative Conflict Communication," 89–101
Barnes, B. E., "Building Conflict Resolution Infrastructure in the Central and South Pacific: Indigenous Populations and Their Conflicts with Governments," 345–361
BATNA (best alternative to a negotiated agreement), 149
Batton, J., "Institutionalizing Conflict Resolution Education: The Ohio Model," 479–494

Blackstock, M. D., "Where Is the Trust? Using Trust-Based Mediation for First Nations Dispute Resolution," 1–8
Bland, B., "A Tale of Interesting Conversations: Exploring Reconciliation in Northern Ireland," 321–343
Blechman, F., "Ethics and Field Building: The Chicken and the Egg," 373–382
Bowling, D., "If We Don't Stop This Train, It Will End Up in the Direction It's Headed," 125–130
Brief therapy, 273–275. See also Solution-focused brief therapy
"Building Conflict Resolution Infrastructure in the Central and South Pacific: Indigenous Populations and Their Conflicts with Governments," 345–361

C

Canada. See First Nations–British Columbia dispute
Capacity-focused model, 93–94
CARE (conflict analysis and resolution as education) model, 314
Caregiving: caregiver selection and, 34–35; caretaker responsibility (case study), 37–38; extended family conflict (case study), 40–41; family network and, 34; gender and, 34; inequitable caregiving (case study), 39–40; planning and, 34; power of attorney (case study), 38–39; sibling conflict and, 24–25, 35–36
Catholic Relief Services, 307
Caucusing, 399, 406–409, 415
Change: conflict and, 31; therapy and, 270
Cheldelin, S., "Have Gavel, Will Travel: Dispute Resolution's Innocents Abroad," 363–371
Chia, H-B., "Enacting and Reproducing Social and Individual Identity Through Mediation," 49–74
Child development: asset development approach to, 95; deficiency-based approach to, 94; Search Institute and, 94
Chinese kong-chin dispute resolution, 298
Chinese-Malaysian mediation (study): background, 52–53; collectivism and, 64; cultural symbols and, 68; data analysis, 54; data sources, 54; face and, 59, 65–66; informants, 53; insights, 57–64; interview protocol, 71–74; Lawyers Engaged in Alternative Dispute Resolution (LEADR) model and, 50–51, 54–58, 62, 64–65, 69; limitations of, 67–68; mediation as cultural/social interaction and, 50–51, 65–68; mediator goals/values and, 57–59; mediator roles and, 62–64; mediator socialization and, 67; method, 52; moral authority of mediator and, 61–62; premise of, 50; recommendations, 69; reproducing wisdom in authority and, 62–63; reproducing zen ren and, 63; respect of mediator and, 59–61; restarting social exchange and, 65–66; studies on, 50; trust of mediator and, 62; Western mediation models and, 49–50
Ching, C-L., "Enacting and Reproducing Social and Individual Identity Through Mediation," 49–74
Circle sentencing, 350
Civil conflict mediation: in Algeria, 438–439; in Chad, 435–436; conflict duration and, 426; conflict issues and, 426; in Cyprus, 433–434; difficulties of negotiation in, 422–423; in Dominican Republic, 434, 438; dynamic nature of, 441; external pressure and, 427; factors in success of, 426–429; grassroots model of, 423; identity-based, 423; insider-partial mediator model of, 423–426; interactive model of, 423; military/peacekeeping interventions and, 426–427; in Nicaragua, 437–438; outcome, 428; in Pakistan, 437; in Sudan, 433–434; in Uganda, 439; Western model of, 423; in Yemen, 436–438; in Zimbabwe, 435
Civil conflict mediation (study): appendix, 441–443; background, 421–424; conclusion, 440–441; conflict management attempt unit and, 427–428; data, 429–430; future research and, 440–441; insider-partial mediator model and, 424–426; mediator characteristics and, 425–426; methodology, 430; outcome goal and, 428; practice implications and, 441; premediation and, 428; qualitative analysis, 433–440; quantitative analysis, 431–433; success factors and, 426–429; terminology in, 425

Civil mediation model, 15–16
"Civil War Characteristics, Mediators, and Resolution," 421–445
Civil war/violence: Cold War and, 421; difficulties of negotiation in, 422–423; identity issues and, 422; inter-/intrastate conflict and, 422; mediation and, 422; ongoing aspect of, 422; policy approaches to, 422
Collectivism, 64
Colloquy: "Building Conflict Resolution Infrastructure in the Central and South Pacific: Indigenous Populations and Their Conflicts with Governments," 345–361; "Discovering the Promise of Curriculum Integration: The National Curriculum Integration Project," 447–464; "Have Gavel, Will Travel: Dispute Resolution's Innocents Abroad," 363–371; "Institutionalizing Conflict Resolution Education: The Ohio Model," 479–494 "Oregon's SCRIP Model: Building School Conflict Resolution Education Capacity Through Community Partnerships," 465–477; "A Tale of Interesting Conversations: Exploring Reconciliation in Northern Ireland," 321–343; "Transnational Conflict Resolution Practice: A Brief Introduction to the Context, Issues, and Search for Best Practice in Exporting Conflict Resolution," 303–319
Commentary: "Ethics and Field Building: The Chicken and the Egg," 373–382; "If We Don't Stop This Train, It Will End Up in the Direction It's Headed," 125–130
Communication: appreciative inquiry approach to, 92–93, 95, 97–98; conversation and, 128; deficit language approach to, 91–92. See also Open communication model
Communication research, 390–391
Community-Based Collaborative Research Consortium, 112
Community Boards (San Francisco), 291
Community conflict management: affirmative approach to, 91–92, 99; cultivating our better nature and, 91; deficit language and, 91–92; Dewey's reflective thinking model and, 91; future research and, 98–99; hypothetico-deductive model and, 97; phronesis and, 98; practical theory approach and, 97–98; problem solving and, 91; recommendations for, 99–100; rethinking, 95–99; theory/practice implications and, 96–97; transformative practice and, 98
Community conflicts, 89–90
Community development: appreciative inquiry and, 92–93; asset development approach to, 94–96, 98; capacity-focused approach to, 93–94, 95, 97–98; deficiency orientation to, 93–94
Community Dialogue, 312, 323–326, 329–331, 334–337
Community mediation: cautions/limitations regarding, 299–300; community boards and, 291; conflict prevention and, 297; conflict resolution centers and, 291; integrating traditional/contemporary approaches to, 289, 299–300; justice and, 251, 253; law enforcement role in, 256–257; leadership and, 295; mediator training and, 295–296; neighborhood justice centers and, 255, 291; oppression and, 254–256; principles of, 294–297; public education and, 296–297; Singaporean model of, 291–294; transfer of power and, 256; transformative potential of, 251–252. See also Singapore, community mediation in
"Community Mediation: Providing Justice and Promoting Transformation," 251–259
Community Mediation Center (CMC; Singapore), 291–299
"Community Mediation in Singapore: Principles for Community Conflict Resolution," 289–301
Competition, conflict and, 31
Compton, R., "Discovering the Promise of Curriculum Integration: The National Curriculum Integration Project," 447–464
Conbere, J. P., "Theory Building for Conflict Management System Design," 215–236
Conferencing: in Hawai'i, 351–352; in New Zealand, 349–351
Confianza model, 424

Conflict: beliefs about intergroup relations and, 328; beliefs about peace and, 328–329; beliefs about the adversary and, 327; beliefs about the ingroup and, 327–328; change and, 31; competition and, 31; issue-specific 481–482; levels of, 481–482; moral, 89–90; organizational impact of, 164; prevention of, 297; reconciliation and, 327; relational, 481; structural-subsystem, 482; structural-system, 482. See also Community conflict management; Research-practice difficulties
Conflict management: components necessary to, 223–225; definition of, 215; evolution of, 216; importance of, 215; organizational system of, 217; terminology of, 216–217
Conflict management attempt (CMA), 427–428
Conflict management models, 217–234; analysis of, 225–233; Constantino/Merchant's, 166, 187–188, 218–220; Lynch's, 221–222; research questions about, 227–233; Rowe's, 220–221; Slaikeu/Hasson's, 222–223; SPIDR's, 223–225; theory building and, 225–231; Ury/Brett/Goldberg's, 164, 183–184, 217–218, 227–228
Conflict management strategies: ADR as, 165; adversarial/inquisitorial, 169; barriers to, 182–184; benefits of, 165, 185; due-process, 167; employee reluctance to use, 163; employee skills training and, 185–186; interest-based, 164–168, 184, 187–188, 216; literature review on, 165–171; managerial intervention, 167–169; mediation, 167; ombudspersons, 166, 168; orientations to, 164–165; power-based, 164, 169–171, 184, 188, 217; right-based, 164, 168–169, 184, 188, 217; third-party, 167, 185–187; underuse of, 165, 185; workplace negotiation and, 183–185. See also Conflict management models
Conflict management strategies, employees' perception of available (study): data analysis, 175–176; discussion, 181–188; future research, 188–189; instrument design, 173–175; limitations, 188; literature review, 165–170; method, 171–176; practice implications, 185–188; purpose, 181–182; research questions, 170–171; results, 176–181; sample, 171–173; theory implications, 183–185
Conflict management systems design: Constantino/Merchant's principles for, 219; foundational premises for, 233; interest-based approach and, 183–184; principles for, 220–221, 223–225; research-practice partnership and, 234; theoretical elements in, 231–233
Conflict prevention/competence, 451
Conflict resolution: blockages to development of, 126–127; Chinese kong-chin, 298; common themes for, 132–234; defining success of, 134; Indian penchayat, 298; Islamic, 298; issues for, 127; longitudinal perspective on, 133; methods of, 222; old Japanese proverb and, 125; old Sufi saying and, 126; power issues and, 133; principles of, 222; Rilke poem and, 125; study circles and, 353; systems orientation in, 133; talk vs. integrative conversation and, 127–128; values motivating, 133. See also Ethics; Field development; Middle-age sibling conflict resolution; Northern Ireland, conflict resolution in; Peacebuilding; Transnational conflict resolution practice
Conflict resolution centers, 291
Conflict resolution education (CRE): benefits of, 469; definition of, 237; generational impact of, 385–386; implementing, 246–248; importance of, 237; innovation and, 386; institutionalization of, 386, 447; model of, 238–240; negative reports about, 384; obstacles to, 242–244; Office of Surgeon General's report on, 384–385; positive impact of, 383–384; principles for quality education and, 244–246; professional self-interest and, 383, 386; reasons to promote, 383; social-emotional learning and, 243–244; standards and, 243, 247; support for, 385; USDOE's report on, 385. See also National Curriculum Integration Project; Ohio model, of conflict resolution education; School Conflict Resolution Information Project (SCRIP; Oregon)

Conflict resolution education, best-practice model of: benefits of, 241–242; curriculum level and, 239; defining success of, 242; home/community and, 240; pedagogy and, 239–240; school culture and, 240; student disciplinary system and, 238–239
"Conflict Resolution Education in the Schools: 'Getting There,'" 237–250
Conflict Resolution Quarterly: intention of, 130; mission statement of, 2; scholarship focus of, 3–5; theory-to-practice features of, 5; vision of, 130
"Considering Effective Divorce Mediation: Three Potential Factors," 389–420
Consortium on Negotiation and Conflict Resolution (CNCR), 305–310, 318, 345, 355
Conversation, 128–129
Cooperative learning, 451
Court-based mediation, 144–145
"Creating Healthy Communities Through Affirmative Conflict Communication," 89–101
Culture: collectivist, 64; mediation as, 50–51, 65–68
Curriculum infusion, 449
Curriculum integration, 451

D

Deficit-based model, 93–94
Deficit language, 91–92
Dewey's reflective thinking model, 91
Dialoguing, 399, 405–406, 415
Dingwall, R., "Lessons from Brief Therapy? Some Interactional Suggestions for Family Mediators," 269–287
Direct third-party participation, 309
"Discovering the Promise of Curriculum Integration: The National Curriculum Integration Project," 447–464
Dispute resolution. See Alternative dispute resolution (ADR); Conflict resolution; Mediation; Online dispute resolution; Research protocols
Dispute system design (DSD), 217. See also Conflict management system design
Diversity, 254–255
Divided societies, 308–309, 324
Domestic violence, 269, 273
Doubt creation, 204–206
Dukes, E. F., "Integration in Environmental Conflict," 103–115

E

Early neutral evaluation (ENE), 135
Editor's Introduction: "Attending to Our Future: Why We Should Support Conflict Resolution Education," 383–388; "Mission of Conflict Resolution Quarterly," 1–8; "Themes of Integration," 131–134
Education. See Conflict resolution education (CRE); Educational theories
Educational theories: conflict prevention/competence, 451; cooperative learning, 451; curriculum integration, 451; emotional intelligence, 451; intergroup relations, 451
Eldercare. See Caregiving
Elicitive approach, 368
Emotional intelligence, 451
"Employee Perceptions of the Availability and Use of Interest-Based, Right-Based, and Power-Based Conflict Management Strategies," 163–196
Employees. See Conflict management strategies, employees' perception of available (study)
Empowerment, 26
"Enacting and Reproducing Social and Individual Identity Through Mediation," 49–74
Environmental conflict resolution (ECR): agenda for, 111–113; challenges to, 103–104; codevelopment of protocols and, 113–114; collaborative processes in, 107–108; collaborative programs, 108; community-based, 112–113; Community-Based Collaborative Research Consortium, 112; criticisms of collaboration and, 108–109; diverse approaches to, 113–114; funding of, 104; involving parties in, 114; involving publics in, 113–114; membership in, 106; origins of, 105; outcomes of, 112–113; private sector organizations of, 105; public sector organizations of, 105–106; research agenda for, 111–113; research/assessment questions and,

104–106; research coordination and, 113–114; research outcomes and, 112–113; research themes for, 110; traditional research paradigm and, 111–112; why of, 104
Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), 106
Ethics: cultural sensitivity and, 263; developing standards and, 374–375; mediation process and, 413–414; models of conflict and, 265; professional guidelines and, 265; what are they? 374. See also Values
"Ethics and Field Building: The Chicken and the Egg," 373–382
Evaluation: defining success and, 134, 316; transnational conflict resolution and, 378–379
Exploring Reconciliation workshop, 329

F

Face, 59, 65–66
Facilitated ADR, 166
Family: caregiving and, 24; inner circle in, 33; revolutionary changes in, 31. See also Sibling relationships
Family mediation, 283
Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, 364
Feminists, 271
Field development: the bottom line and, 381–382; credentialing and, 377; credibility issues and, 377; defining issues and, 376–380; defining professionals and, 373–374; developing institutional structures and, 379; the dream and, 380–381; ethics and, 374–375, 381; evaluation and, 378–379; identifying rules and, 378–379; knowledge structure and, 375–376; myth-breaking and, 381; positive notes in, 382; power issues and, 376–377; standardized assessment tools and, 379; theoretical issues and, 378–379; vocabulary and, 378
First Nations–British Columbia dispute: Canada's aboriginal people's policy and, 11–12; civil dispute model and, 15–16; dispute resolution approaches for, 12–16; history of, 10–12; mistrust and, 9–10, 14; open communication model and, 16, 22–23; treaty process and, 11–12, 27–28
First Nations–British Columbia dispute (study): challenges in, 18; characteristics of, 17–18; developing mediation model for, 20–27; empowerment and, 26; establishing trust in, 21–22; evaluation of, 27; exploring interests in, 23–25; generating solutions in, 25; identifying issues in, 21; implementation scenarios for, 27–28; implementing mediation model for, 27–28; measuring success of, 26; mediator expertise and, 28; mediator goal in, 16–18; mediator role in, 16–17, 27; negotiating interim measures and, 28; open communication model and, 16, 22–24; power-grab response model and, 23; preparation/orientation for, 18–20; remedy by judiciary and, 28; resolving nonviolent direct-action disputes and, 28; seeking commitment in, 21; setting ground rules for, 20–21; system of trust in, 25–27; using "stone game" in, 22–23; working within treaty process and, 27–28; written agreement in, 25–26
Fisher, T., "Advice by Any Other Name . . ." 197–214
Ford, E., "Oregon's SCRIP Model: Building School Conflict Resolution Education Capacity Through Community Partnerships," 465–477;

G

Gale, J., "Considering Effective Divorce Mediation: Three Potential Factors," 389–420
Gender: caregiving and, 34; power and, 146, 150
Gentry, D. B., "Resolving Middle-Age Sibling Conflict Regarding Parent Care," 31–47
Gewurz, I. G., "(Re)designing Mediation to Address the Nuances of Power Imbalance," 135–162
Global Coalition for Africa, 304, 307, 316
Grid for the perplexed, 140–141

H

"Have Gavel, Will Travel: Dispute Resolution's Innocents Abroad," 363–371

Hawai'i, conflict resolution in: background, 351–352; capacity building and, 355–357; conferencing in, 351–352; practitioner networks in, 356–357; problems/lessons on, 358–359; sovereignty dialogues and, 352–354; transfer of technology and, 357–358
Hawai'ian/Pacific Rim mediation model: conflict areas and, 346; evolution of, 345–347; hybrid nature of, 311–312; research summary and, 347. See also Australia, conflict resolution in: Hawai'i, conflict resolution in; New Zealand, conflict resolution in Herrman, M. S., "Considering Effective Divorce Mediation: Three Potential Factors," 389–420
Hewlett Foundation, 78
Hollett, N. L., "Considering Effective Divorce Mediation: Three Potential Factors," 389–420
Honeyman, C., "Have Gavel, Will Travel: Dispute Resolution's Innocents Abroad," 363–371; "Not Quite Protocols: Toward Collaborative Research in Dispute Resolution," 75–88
Hwee, C.C.S., "Enacting and Reproducing Social and Individual Identity Through Mediation," 49–74
Hypothetico-deductive model, 97

I

"If We Don't Stop This Train, It Will End Up in the Direction It's Headed," 125–130
Impartiality, 199. See also Neutrality, mediator
Indian penchayat dispute resolution, 298
Insider-partial mediator model, 423–426
Institute for Conflict Analysis and Resolution (ICAR), 305, 363–364, 375
Institute for Environmental Negotiation, 106, 110, 112
Institute of International Studies (IIS), 324
"Institutionalizing Conflict Resolution Education: The Ohio Model," 479–494
Integrating Theory, Research, and Practice: "Community Mediation: Providing Justice and Promoting Transformation," 251–259; "Conflict Resolution Education in the Schools: 'Getting There,'" 237–250; "Creating Healthy Communities Through Affirmative Conflict Communication," 89–101; "Integration in Environmental Conflict," 103–115; "Online Dispute Resolution: Theory and Practice of the Fourth Party," 117–124; "Theory Building for Conflict Management System Design," 215–236
"Integration in Environmental Conflict," 103–115
Integrative conversation, 127–128
Interest-based strategies, 164–168, 184, 187–188, 216–219
Intergroup relations, 451
International Alert (IA), 310
International mediation. See Civil conflict mediation; Transnational conflict resolution practice; individual countries
Internet: mediation chatrooms and, 294; public education and, 297
Interventions: doubt creation, 204–206; process transparency and, 210–211; reframing, 206–207; selective facilitation, 207–209
Ireland. See Northern Ireland, conflict resolution in Islamic dispute resolution, 298

J

Jameson, J. K., "Employee Perceptions of the Availability and Use of Interest-Based, Right-Based, and Power-Based Conflict Management Strategies," 163–196
Jones, T. S., "Attending to Our Future: Why We Should Support Conflict Resolution Education," 383–388; "Mission of Conflict Resolution Quarterly," 1–8; "Themes of Integration," 131–134;

K

Konflikt-rad (Oslo), 291

L

Lawyers Engaged in Alternative Dispute Resolution (LEADR) model, 50–51, 54–58, 62, 64–65, 69
Leaders, mediators as, 292–293, 295
Lee-Partridge, J., "Enacting and

Reproducing Social and Individual Identity Through Mediation," 49–74
"Lessons from Brief Therapy? Some Interactional Suggestions for Family Mediators," 269–287
Litigation, vs. ADR, 76

M

McAdoo, B., "Not Quite Protocols: Toward Collaborative Research in Dispute Resolution," 75–88
Mediation: court-based vs. private, 144–145; as culture/social interaction, 50–51, 66–68; debates surrounding, 135–136; definition of, 139; educative function of, 271; evolution of, 140; feminist criticism of, 271; framing of, 142–143; grid for the perplexed and, 140–141; and mediator role, 139, 145–146; nature of activity of, 143; styles, 141–143; voluntary nature of, 144–145. See also Alternative dispute resolution (ADR); Chinese-Malaysian mediation (study); Civil conflict mediation; Civil mediation model; Community conflict management; Conflict management strategies; Conflict resolution; Court-based mediation; Divorce mediation; Environmental conflict resolution; Family mediation; Interventions; Mediation effectiveness; Mediation models; Mediation process; Mediation, systemic therapy in; Mediation, therapy in; Power, mediation and; Singapore, community mediation in; Solution-focused mediation; Standards, of practice; Transformative mediation; Trust-based mediation
Mediation, systemic therapy in: concerns about, 270; in court-affiliated mediation, 271; drawbacks of, 271–273; mediator unfamiliarity with, 272; in Portugal, 272
Mediation, therapy in: drawbacks of, 271; mediator neutrality and, 270–271; mediator training in, 270
Mediation Center of the Pacific, 346
Mediation effectiveness: and active role of mediator and participants, 414–415; factors in, 390; holistic approach to, 414, 416; mediator characteristics and, 390; mediator training and, 415; professional background and, 415; technology and, 415–416; variables affecting, 389–390
Mediation effectiveness, factors in (study): analytic procedures, 395–396; case scenario, 393–394; communication research and, 390–391; ethical implications, 413–414; insights, 414–416; mediation structure, 396–404; mediator sample, 392, 416; procedures, 394–395; research assumptions, 391; research background and, 390–391, 416; research methods, 392–396, 416–417; research/practice implications, 414–416; results, 396–414; and socioemotional influences, 404–411; substantive details, 411–413; tape analysis, 395; use of actors in, 392–393, 417–418. See also Mediation process
Mediation models: Asian, 50; confianza, 424; diversity of, 140–141; evaluative, 141–142; facilitative, 141, 143; grass-roots, 423; insider-partial mediator, 423–426; interactive, 423; outsider-neutral, 424; relational, 143; settlement-oriented, 142–143; solution-focused, 275; typology for, 141; Western, 49–50, 423
Mediation process: and active role of mediator and participants, 414–415; caucusing and, 399, 406–409, 415; child/spousal support and, 412; dialoguing and, 399, 405–406, 415; ethical implications and, 413–414; holistic approach to, 414, 416; living arrangements and, 411–412; long-term perspective and, 412–413; mediator strategies and, 399–404; mediator training and, 415; opening statements and, 399; overall balance in, 416; reactive responses and, 410; role of perspective in, 409–410; socioemotional influences and, 404–411; structural organization and, 396–404; substantive details and, 411–413; technology and, 415–416; turn-taking and, 410–411
Mediator style: active vs. passive, 143; communication practices and, 391; evaluative, 141–142; facilitative, 141, 143; framing of process and, 142–143;

intervention and, 144–146; lack of consensus on, 391; mediation approach and, 152; mediation effectiveness and, 389–391; settlement vs. problem-solving, 391. See also Negotiating style
Mediator training: mediation effectiveness and, 415; in therapeutic methods, 270; transnational conflict resolution practice and, 309
Mediators: deference to, 145; ethical dilemmas and, 198, 203, 209; formal status of, 144–145; insider-partial model for, 423–426; leaders as, 292–293, 295; marginalization of domestic violence by, 269; mediation effectiveness and, 390; as neutral/impartial, 269, 424–425; party behavior and, 269; party resolution of conflict and, 269; personality/power of, 144; power of, 144–146; role of, 139, 145; systemic therapy and, 270–272; therapeutic training of, 270. See also Advice giving; Impartiality; Mediator style; Mediator training; Neutrality, mediator
Mennonite Conciliation Service, 364, 368
Middle-age sibling conflict resolution: alternatives, 42–44; benefits of, 45; caregiving context and, 34–35; caretaker responsibility (case study), 37–38; case studies in, 37–41; communication strategies and, 42–44; consensus-building approaches and, 43; counseling and, 43, 45; extended family conflict (case study), 40–41; inequitable caregiving (case study), 39–40; litigation and, 44; mediator role in, 43–45; outcomes in, 36, 45–46; points of contention in, 35–36; power of attorney (case study), 38–39; power struggles and, 35–36, 42; sibling rivalry and, 36
Miller, G., "Lessons from Brief Therapy? Some Interactional Suggestions for Family Mediators," 269–287
"Mission of Conflict Resolution Quarterly," 1–8
Moral conflicts, 89–90
Mott Foundation, 312
Moveable feast, 363–365. See also Transnational conflict resolution practice
Moveable feast model, 79
Mowery, R. L., "Considering Effective Divorce Mediation: Three Potential Factors," 389–420

N

National Curriculum Integration Project (NCIP): assessment development and, 463; assessment issues and, 461; content vs. skills and, 460–461; curriculum integration/infusion and, 448–449, 458–459; developing integrated units and, 461–462; educational reform and, 460; educational theories and, 451; elementary/high school implementation and, 462–463; emergent issues and, 459–462; factors affecting, 459; follow-up research and, 463; future directions and, 462–463; goals of, 450; impact on classroom climate/learning environment, 458; impact on emotional/conflict competence, 457–458; integrated lessons and, 455–456; lessons learned and, 459; origins of, 447–448; overview of, 449–452; phase two research, 454–455, 457–459; planning time and, 460; positive outcomes of, 453–454, 463; program implementation factors and, 454, 460–461; project design/implementation and, 452–455; research questions and, 454–455; schoolwide culture and, 461–462; skills training and, 453; teacher commitment and, 452; teacher support and, 452; Website for, 462
National Resource Center for Safe Schools, 492
Navajo peacemaking, 350
Negotiated ADR, 166
Negotiating style: contextual factors and, 154–155; power and, 146, 148; types of, 148. See also Mediator style
Negotiation: BATNA and, 149; defined, 166; power sources and, 146–150
Neighborhood Justice Center (Tallahassee, Fla.): diversity and, 255–256; justice and, 255, 258; relationship with police of, 256–258; restorative justice program of, 257–258; transformative impact of, 253
Neighborhood justice centers, 291
Network of Communities for Peacemaking and Conflict Resolution, 364

Neutrality, mediator: active intervention and, 169; advice giving and, 199; defined, 199; expanded, 199, 210; mediator counseling and, 270–271. See also Impartiality; Outsider-neutral model

New Zealand, conflict resolution in: background, 347–348; capacity building and, 355–357; conferencing and, 349–351; Maori culture and, 348–351; Maori land disputes and, 347–348; practitioner networks in, 356–357; problems/lessons on, 358–359; restorative justice and, 348–350; transfer of technology and, 357–358; VORP programs and, 349; Waitangi Tribunal and, 347–348; whanau hui process and, 350–351

Nongovernmental organizations (NGOs): ADR, 307–308; increasing role of, 307; peace, 307–308; professional vs. entrepreneurial, 308; types of, 307

Northern Ireland, conflict resolution in: addressing past/present/future and, 335–336; belief systems and, 327–329; Community Dialogue and, 312, 323–326, 329–331, 334–337; continuation of, 337–338; divided societies and, 308–309, 324; evaluation and, 336–337; fundamental needs and, 324–325; fundamental philosophical/psychological differences and, 322–323; fundamental questions and, 324; Good Friday Agreement and, 322; implementation and, 335–336; improving common experience and, 333–334; moving to we and, 333; peacebuilding and, 309, 323; primacy of agents of, 332–333; questions on agreement and, 338; questions on dialogue and, 338; questions on relational themes and, 338; questions/observations and, 325–236; Stanford Center on Conflict and Negotiation (SCCN) and, 312, 324–339; trust amid distrust and, 334–335; valuing relationships and, 330–332

Not quite protocols, 79–84. See also Research protocols

"Not Quite Protocols: Toward Collaborative Research in Dispute Resolution," 75–88

O

Ohio model, of conflict resolution education: activity types and, 483–484; background, 479–481; comprehensive approach of, 481–483, 490; Conflict Resolution Education Institute for Higher Education Faculty and, 486–487; conflict resolution grant program, 485–486; curricular interventions and, 484–485; distance learning and, 487; evaluation and, 488–491; framework for, 483–484; funding and, 480–481; future needs and, 492–493; future research and, 492; gaining support for, 481; grant program results and, 488–490; identifying sources of conflict and, 482–483; intervention levels and, 483; nested theory of conflict and, 481–482; and other state CRE efforts, 491–492; overcoming barriers to, 490–491; pedagogical issues and, 484–485; positive outcomes of, 489–490; professional development and, 488; resource guides and, 486, 491; school culture and, 483, 485; school grant program and, 480, 485–486; school safety legisl tion and, 491–492; skill building and, 485–486; staff development and, 486, 490–491; state agency partnership and, 479–480; student conduct and, 484; supports for in-school capacity and, 484; team training and, 490–491; terminology and, 480; Website, 491, 493

Olson, M., "Civil War Characteristics, Mediators, and Resolution," 421–445

Online dispute resolution (ODR): communication skills and, 122–123; cyberspace and, 118–120; definition of, 119; electronic environment and, 118–119; goal of, 120; human-technical balance in, 121; Internet and, 118–119; keys for successful, 120; practitioner challenges and, 122; practitioner skills and, 122–123; questions about, 119, 123–124; risks of, 123; role/function of fourth party and, 120–121 traditional face-to-face mediation practice and, 117–118, 121; valid process for, 120

"Online Dispute Resolution: Theory and Practice of the Fourth Party," 117–124
Open communication model, 16, 22–24
Oregon Dispute Resolution Commission (ODRC), 465
"Oregon's SCRIP Model: Building School Conflict Resolution Education Capacity Through Community Partnerships," 465–477
Organizational conflict management system, 217
Outsider-neutral mediator model, 424. See also Neutrality, mediator

P

Parachute training, 366
Partnering, 368–369
Peacebuilding: beliefs about peace and, 328–329; conflict resolution and, 308–309; implementation of, 335–336; U.S. Institute of Peace, 312. See also Conflict resolution
Pearson, F. S., "Civil War Characteristics, Mediators, and Resolution," 421–445
Phronesis, 98
Power: categories of, 138, 146–150; coercive, 138, 146, 149; commitment and, 146–147; complexity of, 136–138; definitions of, 136; emotional/psychological aspects of, 137, 146, 149–150; expert, 138; gender and, 146, 150; issues of, in conflict resolution field, 133; legitimate, 138, 147, 150; negotiating style and, 146, 148; negotiation and, 146–150; perceived, 137; personal, 146, 147; procedural, 146–147; referent, 138, 146, 148; as relational/contextual, 136–137, 146, 149; responding to issues about, 376–377; reward, 138, 146, 149; sources of, 138, 146–147, 149; substantive, 146, 149; threshold questions for assessing, 152–155; typology of, 137–138
Power balance: caregiving and, 35–36, 42; power grabs and, 23
Power-based strategies, 164, 169–171, 184, 188, 219
Power-grab response model, 23
Power imbalance, mediation and: active vs. passive approach to, 143; critics of, 151; debate about, 136, 139; examples of, 155–159; existing forms of, 152, 154; mediation style and, 152–153; mediator style and, 151–152; nuances of, 139, 151; proponents of, 150–151; relationship future and, 152–154; typology of, 153
Process transparency, 210–211
Program on Conflict Resolution (PCR), 311, 348, 355, 357

R

Racial conflict, 353
RAND Institute for Civil Justice dispute resolution study, 76
RealJustice programs, 350
Reconciliation, in Northern Ireland: addressing past/present/future and, 335–336; improving common experience and, 333–334; moving to we and, 333; primacy of agents of, 332–333; propositions on, 328–329; social goals and, 327; trust amid distrust and, 334–335; usefulness of term and, 337; valuing relationships and, 330–332; workshop on, 329
"(Re)designing Mediation to Address the Nuances of Power Imbalance," 135–162
Reflective Practice/Best Practices in Building National and Regional Conflict Resolution Systems, 306
Reframing, 206–207
Research, motivating values of, 132–133. See also Environmental conflict resolution research; Theory development
Research-practice difficulties: factors in, 78; Howard Bellman example, 77; Indiana University–U.S. Postal Service example, 76–77; mistrust and, 77; RAND study example, 76
Research protocols: advance input and, 83; audience and, 85; caveats about, 87; confidentiality and, 81; data collection and, 81; factors affecting researcher-practitioner relationship and, 78 incentives for participation and, 86–87; informed consent and, 81–82; integrity of observation and, 82; methodology, 79–80; moveable feast model and, 79; not quite protocols and, 79; obligations of parties and, 83–84; for practitioners, 83–84; program changes and, 84;

protecting participants/information and, 82, 84–86; providing editorial control and, 86; question formulation and, 83; reality testing and, 81; reciprocity/collaboration and, 81, 84; reporting/accessibility of results and, 82–83, 85; research as secondary and, 82; for researchers, 80–83; research-practice difficulties (examples) and, 76–77; Theory to Practice project and, 78–79; trust building and, 77
"Resolving Middle-Age Sibling Conflict Regarding Parent Care," 31–47
Restorative justice: circle sentencing and, 350; conferencing and, 359; Navajo peacemaking and, 350; in New Zealand, 348–350; RealJustice programs, 350; VORP programs and, 349. See also Victim-offender reconciliation programs (VORPs)
Rifkin, J., "Online Dispute Resolution: Theory and Practice of the Fourth Party," 117–124
Right-based strategies, 164, 168–169, 184, 188, 219

S

Sandy, S. V., "Conflict Resolution Education in the Schools: 'Getting There,'" 237–250
School Conflict Resolution Information Project (SCRIP; Oregon): barriers/challenges and, 467–468; Community Dispute Resolution Centers and, 467; community involvement examples and, 473–474; community-based model and, 472–473; curriculum development and, 475; funding, 466, 476–477; future directions, 474–477; groundwork, 466–467; information dissemination and, 471–472; marketing benefits of CRE and, 468–469; ODRC partnership with Oregon Department of Education, 466–467; organizations involved in, 469–471; pilot projects and, 476; research needs and, 474–475; resource development and, 472; stakeholder buy-in, 467; startup, 466; statewide advocacy and, 476; training/qualification standards and, 475–476
Search Institute, 94
Selective facilitation, 207–209
Sibling relationships: developmental stages of, 32; developmental tasks in, 33; sister vs. brother, 33; types of, 33; unique characteristics of, 32; valuation of, 33. See also Family; Middle-age sibling conflict resolution
Singapore, community mediation in: citizen consultative committees and, 291, 295; Community Mediation Center and, 291–299; community mediation principles and, 294–297; conflict prevention and, 297; cultural diversity and, 289–290, 299; demographic background, 289–290; effectiveness of, 294; Family Tribunal and, 291; integrating traditional/contemporary approaches to, 289, 299–300; Internet tools and, 294, 297; leadership and, 295; mediation/dispute resolution background and, 290–291; mediation process and, 293–294; mediator neutrality/ impartiality and, 296; mediator role/training and, 292–293, 295–296; politicization of, 295; public education and, 296–297; resident committees and, 291, 295; social milieu and, 290; student-based programs and, 299
Society for Professionals in Dispute Resolution (SPIDR), 353, 374
Socioemotional aspects of mediation, 404–411
Solution-focused brief therapy: efficacy of, 276, 284; evolution of, 273–274; future orientation of, 275; mediation and, 275; philosophical approach of, 274–275; recent developments in, 270; short duration of, 275–276; solution-building strategies of, 276;
Solution-focused mediation: divorce/family mediation and, 283; exception questions and, 279–280; future research on. 284; getting out of party's way in, 283; miracle questions and, 281–282; new aspects of, 282–283; questioning strategies in, 276–283; scaling questions and, 280–281; self-transformation and, 283; solution-focused therapy and, 275–276
Solution-focused questioning, 276–277

Sovereignty dialogues: in Australia, 354–355; in Hawai'i, 352–354
Standards, of practice: advice giving and, 200–201; neutrality/impartiality and, 201–202
Stanford Center on Conflict and Negotiation (SCCN), 312, 324–339
Study circles, 353
Success, defining, 134, 316. See also Evaluation
Systems approach, 133

T

"Tale of Interesting Conversations: Exploring Reconciliation in Northern Ireland, A," 321–343
Tan, N-T., "Community Mediation in Singapore: Principles for Community Conflict Resolution," 289–301
Technology, mediation and, 415–416
Terrorism, 317, 364
"Themes of Integration," 131–134
Theory building: conflict management models and, 225–231; defined, 226; Dubin's model of, 227; HRD and, 226–227; need for, 225–226; practice-based, 133–134; terminology in, 226–227. See also Research
"Theory Building for Conflict Management System Design," 215–236
Theory to Practice project, 78–79, 363–364
Therapy: change and, 270; mediation and, 270–271. See also Brief therapy; Mediation, systemic therapy in; Mediation, therapy in; Solution-focused brief therapy
Training. See Mediator training
Transformative mediation: Bush/Folger's model of, 252; community mediation and, 251–252; solution-focused mediation and, 283
Transitional societies, 308–309
Transnational conflict resolution practice: academics vs. practitioners and, 367; adapting domestic models and, 367–368; advice to communities and, 370; in Africa, 302; avoiding harm and, 365–367; best practices in, 312–316; capacity building and, 314–316; CARE model and, 314; categories of, 309; collaboration and, 316; conference on reflective, 306; consortium on, 305–310, 318; consultation and, 309; contributing factors to, 364; coordinated efforts and, 316; as crisis driven, 315; defining success and, 316; direct third-party participation and, 310; dos and don'ts, 372; evaluation and, 316–317; examples of, 364; expertise issues and, 364; funding for, 315, 369–370; future research and, 317; globalization and, 364; legitimacy and, 369; long-term relationships and, 366; models for, 311–312; negative results of, 204; nongovernmental organizations and, 307, 317; partnering and, 368–369; peacebuilding and, 308–309; problems with, 311; protocols for, 365–370; teamwork and, 315; terrorism and, 364; training and, 310, 366; transferability issues and, 313–314; transitional vs. divided societies and, 308–309. See also Australia, conflict resolution in; Hawai'i, conflict resolution in; Moveable feast discussion; New Zealand, conflict resolution in; Northern Ireland, conflict resolution in
"Transnational Conflict Resolution Practice: A Brief Introduction to the Context, Issues, and Search for Best Practice in Exporting Conflict Resolution," 303–319
Trust: characteristics of, 14–15; confianza model and, 424; definition of, 9; system of, 25–26
Trust-based mediation: mediator role and, 16, 20–21; mistrust and, 9–10, 14; preparation for, 18–20; stage one: establishing ground rules for, 20–21; stage two: identifying issues/assessing trust in, 21–23; stage three: exploring interests in, 23–25; stage four generating solutions in, 25–27; trust and, 9, 14–15
Turn-taking, 410–411

U

U.S. Institute of Peace, 312;

V

Values, research/practice and, 132–133. See also Ethics

Victim-offender reconciliation programs (VORPs), in New Zealand, 349. See also Restorative justice

W

Wei-Fei, S.F.K., "Enacting and Reproducing Social and Individual Identity Through Mediation," 49–74
Weinstein, M., "Community Mediation: Providing Justice and Promoting Transformation," 251–259
Welsh, N., "Not Quite Protocols: Toward Collaborative Research in Dispute Resolution," 75–88
"Where Is the Trust? Using Trust-Based Mediation for First Nations Dispute Resolution," 1–8
World Bank, 310

X

X factor, 366

Y

Yarn, D., "Transnational Conflict Resolution Practice: A Brief Introduction to the Context, Issues, and Search for Best Practice in Exporting Conflict Resolution," 303–319